

LEAN & SIX SIGMA GREEN BELT CERTIFICATION

Overview

The next logical step after Green Belt training. Now that you have learned the concepts, tools and techniques of Lean & Six Sigma, it is time to put what you've learned into practice.

Lean & Six Sigma Green Belt Certification will give you the opportunity to demonstrate your understanding and application of Lean & Six Sigma by facilitating a real life process improvement project or Kaizen within your organization.

One-on-One Mentoring

From beginning to end of your certification journey, enjoy the support of a Rutgers Black Belt/Master Black Belt. This Mentor will enrich your experience and provide the guidance and confidence you need to implement and conclude a successful Green Belt project.

Participants, join an elite group of Certified Green Belts by obtaining this valuable credential, while enhancing the value you offer to your organization.

Organizations, build your team's ability to reduce waste, improve profitability and better satisfy your customers.

PROGRAM DATE

Most certification candidates begin their projects within a few weeks of completion of Green Belt training.

Typical projects run from several weeks to six months, dependent on the nature of the project and other business factors.
